

HIG FIRE AT HAMBURG ESCUES

Millions of Property and Shipping Destroyed—Russian Strikers Attack an English Establishment—Boulanger's Farewell

HAMBURG, June 1.—A great fire broke

The Huebener quays were speedily destroyed. Six large sheds were next gutted. The flames then communicated to two British vessels, the City of Dortmund and the Gladiator, and destroyed them. The masts and rigging of many other

At one o'clock this morning the fire had spread over an area of about three hundred by four hundred yards. By four o'clock the flames were under control and not likely to spread further.

It is not known whether there was any loss of life. The damage will be immense, reaching, it is estimated, several millions.

Two lighters, containing cotton, were among the property destroyed. Ten railway wagons loaded chiefly with cotton were also burned.

"Times" on Parnellism.

LONDON, June 1.—The last of the Times' second series of articles on the late

The article continues, "On other words, a series of dynamic and incendiary outrages is intended. Whether the scheme succeeds the near future will disclose. We know the Farnellites possess the means and the projects of the man who holds such close relations with them; we shall not here discuss them with only add that while the success of the intrigue have made has surprised our original expectations, Mr. Parnell has but to raise a finger to obtain far fuller information upon every point than our partial and limited opportunities have rendered possible."

Boulanger's Farewell of the Army.

PARIS, June 1.—Following is the full text of General Boulanger's address in taking farewell of the army:

OFFICERS, NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS: The Cabinet which I belonged having resigned, the President of the Republic has placed the ministry in other hands. On taking my leave of the army I desire to offer my thanks of General Ferron, who was General Bonad-dinger's place in the Ministry, commanded the Thirteenth Division (Infantry) of the Seventh Army Corps.

Lord Hartington, in a letter to the conference, said the doubt and confusion surrounding the Home Rule question were still unremoved. The Liberals professed to be ready to accept modifications of their original bill granting Ireland home rule, but they made no practical suggestion as to what would satisfy them.

declined Lord Hartington, has caused an indefinite postponement of the settlement of the Irish question. The alliance of the Gladstone Government with the Parnellites had only weakened Parliamentary authority.

International College Race.

LONDON, June 1.—The President of the Cambridge University Boat Club publishes a letter addressed to the students of the University, in which he says that the college clubs seem disinclined to subscribe toward paying the expenses of sending a rowing crew to America for the purpose of racing against the Harvard University crew, and therefore, appeals to individual members.

to assist him in raising the necessary amount. He urges the importance of the proposed race and says: "We ought to initiate such contests with the American college, as they would be sure to draw the Death Rather than Disgrace.

BISMARCK, June 1.—The body of Postmaster Canon, of Fort Lincoln, was washed ashore at Winona, sixty-five miles north of here, yesterday. The Postoffice inspector found irregularities in the office and indicated that Canon was liable to be arrested and imprisoned. He disappeared from the postoffice at six o'clock in the evening, and until the finding of the body in the Missouri river could any facts in the case be ascertained. He was worth about $35,000.

In Honor of Gladstone.
LONDON, June 1.—Preparations are being made to hold demonstrations in honor of Mr. Gladstone at all the places through which he passes en route to Swansea. He has consented to receive addresses at many stations, on the condition that he shall not be expected to make set speeches. In receiving a deputation at Hawarden, yesterday, he said: "I must keep what little voice is left me for engagements to which I am already bound."

Gladstone's Present.

New York, June 1.—Richard M. Walters, Secretary of the Parnell Parliamentary Fund Committee, sailed to-day on the White Star steamer Germanic, taking with him the magnificent testimonial will present to Mr. Gladstone in the name of the great statesman's admirers in this country. The steamboat Sirius, chartered by the committee, entered the Germanic down the bay, bearing nearly 1,000 of Mr. Walters' friends, among whom were many ladies. A collation was served, speeches were made and a copy of the address presented by the committee through Mr. Walters was read.

LONDON, June 1.—While a quadrille was being performed in the Wild West show to-day, "Buck" Taylor was thrown from his horse. The animal bolted and crushed the rider against the cantle of another horse's saddle. Taylor fell to the ground and sustained a compound fracture of the thigh. He was removed to St. George's hospital.

Mass and Te Deum.
Rome, June 1.—A papal rescript has been issued ordering high mass and te deum to be sung in all Catholic churches in England in honor of the Queen's
